

Consultant

Sarah Kurka

My passion lies in aptitude assessment because it reveals potential and competencies and creates opportunities for growth, self-development, and change. I am committed to diagnostic processes in accordance with DIN 33430, ensuring that candidates experience fair and transparent conditions throughout selection and development procedures. As a consultant and systemic coach, I support individuals in their self-reflection and development.

+49 30 403696-238

sarah.kurka@eligo.de

Standort Berlin, 10965

Sarah Kurka auf LinkedIn

„The curious paradox is that when I accept myself just as I am, then I can change.“
(Carl R. Rogers). Talent assessment provides insight into existing potential and competencies. What is recognised and embraced can be developed further in a targeted and sustainable way.

Professional focus and project experience

- > Design and implementation of competency-based online assessments derived from job analyses for recruitment purposes and potential analyses within the public sector
- > Design and delivery of strategic talent development concepts as part of leadership development programmes in the software development industry
- > Management and support of personnel selection projects for clients in the public sector and the automotive industry
- > Conducting structured interviews and competency model analyses, as well as developing interview guides
- > Facilitating assessment centres, including the design and implementation of assessment centre exercises
- > Delivering assessor and interviewer training programmes
- > Providing individual coaching for professionals and managers in the software development industry